

Have you checked out AASHTO's Transportation TV yet?

The concept behind it is the regular tracking of transportation related news across the United States, providing news updates and highlighting people "making headlines in the field of transportation". Transportation TV is a convenient source for AASHTO Congressional Briefings, event coverage, interviews, and transportation impact news features. One of the most recent videos features the Traffic Incident Management (TIM) Training that has been deployed around the country- which has now reached more than 200,000 participants. At a recent press conference at USDOT headquarters in Washington, DC, Deputy Federal Highway Administrator David Kim helped acknowledge the 200,000 trained milestone.
